Peter,

That sounds good. Is there a number that Davis and I could call together to reach Adrian at 11 am EDT on Thursday? Alternately, if there will be others from your office participating from different locations, I can get a conference line here.

Hi Peter,

Site Cleanup Unit Manager Davis Zhen is available today between 3 and 4:30 pm EDT (12 and 1:30 pm PDT) or Thursday between 10:30 and 11:30 am EDT (7:30 and 8:30 am PDT). Would Adrian be available for 15 minutes during one of those timeframes?

With my regards,

Cindy

Hi Peter,

Our Remedial Program Manager, Cami Grandinetti, usually participates in Portland Harbor congressional calls and is out until next week. I'm trying to find someone else to be a call to add to the information that I provided below, and I'll get back to you.

With my regards,

Cindy

Hi Cindy,

My colleague Adrian Deveny has requested I schedule a conference call with you, if you are available. Would you be available at 1pm on Wednesday, July 13 (tomorrow) for a phone call with Adrian? Adrian also has availability later in the day tomorrow, and on Thursday.

All the best,

Peter Narby

Hello Adrian,

I'm not sure that you're available for a call today, so here is information in response to your Portland Harbor questions yesterday.

Operable units: It was actually "early actions" that were used at the Duwamish site, not operable units.

State concurrence: As expected, EPA is keeping the state informed along the way, so there should be no surprises to delay state concurrence on the record of decision.

Resampling: Sampling was done to characterize the site and do the risk assessment. The sampling data was not intended for construction purposes. Parties doing the cleanup will sample and get data before the cleanup design and construction; they will not want to do cleanup where it's not needed. The parties can also do more sampling as part of the cleanup allocation process.

Please let me know if you have other questions.

With my regards,

Cindy Schuster

Hello Adrian,

It was nice talking to you this afternoon about the Portland Harbor Proposed Plan schedule. I'd like to follow up by including Cami Grandinetti in a call about the other things that you brought up: use of operable units; state concurrence; and purpose and effect of resampling.

Would you be available for a 15-minute call tomorrow (Tuesday) at 11:00 am EDT/8:00 am PDT, or between 1:30 and 2:15 pm EDT/10:30 and 11:15 am PDT?

With my regards,

Cindy
